

What is the history of sign language?

[NOTE: This article can be re-organized for personal use. Please see below.]

Step 4: Submit to the Sign Language Student Bulletin Board.

Participating: You can submit your essay to all of the sign language student bulletin boards in the USA. Contact us if you are not located in the USA to discuss your paper with our coordinators. Note: We will not accept submissions from: Any institution that is not located in the USA.

Step 5: After receiving your essay, respond verbally and send it to our coordinators.

Participating: You can send a signed response to our student coordinators once you have received and reviewed your essay for relevance. Please do not post a text message of a letter or letterhead.

Step 6: Receive your signed response.

Participating: You can receive your responses during any of our student lunches to which you belong on any of our campuses.

Step 7: Once received, review your response(s).

Part 2: Teaching:

**NOTE: This is a step-by-step guide to teaching sign language, but these are not official materials.

******

**NOTE: It is essential to be familiar with and use a variety of methods to teach sign language.****

**NOTE: Signs